Feed and Feed Ingredient Manufacturing Committee AFIA Update – Richard Sellers

AFIA's Richard Sellers reported on a number of issues related to AFIA and the feed industry. He noted that the International Production and Processors Expo with 30,000+ expected attendees will be held later in the month and was pleased that AAFCO took advantage of the free booth. He noted that the new administration will dramatically change think, and AFIA is working toward reducing regulatory burdens.

In FSMA-related news, AFIA announced the impending release of its University of Minnesota-developed scientific portion of the FSMA-required hazard analysis for feed and ingredient facilities. He also noted that AFIA has produced a qualified individual training video available to AFIA members and non-members.
